About VCCA

The Virginia Center for the Creative Arts is a U.S.-based nonprofit with a mission to provide time and space for national and international writers, visual artists, and composers of talent and promise to bring forth their finest works, because the arts are vital, diversity is a strength, and creativity is essential.

VCCA's Moulin à Nef in Auvillar, France, welcomes a total of ~40 Fellows each year, four at a time. During their stay, Fellows live communally in a four-bedroom terraced French country home. Next door, four private artist studios are housed in a 17th century structure. A third building on the property is home to the VCCA Office, above which is a private apartment for the Resident Director. The history of the Moulin à Nef is based on a cultural exchange opportunity between visiting artists and local villagers.
